RSA Regional Studies Association

China Division

The Regional Studies Association is the perfect platform for researchers, policy makers and practitioners concerned with regional and urban development, research or policy to develop their knowledge, networks and enhance their profile.

An RSA China Division annual membership offers China based members: online access to 24 academic journals in the field of regional studies and regional science and online and hardcopy access to the RSA's journal Area Development and Policy.

Area Development and Policy (ADP) - aimed at those writing in and on Greater BRICs territories and emerging economies. This journal publishes original academic research examining the multi-scalar and geographically differentiated relationships between economic and political organisation, ways of life and work and their context, as they shape regions, cities, rural areas and their inter-relationships. ADP is indexed in Clarivate Analytics' Emerging Sources Citation Index and Scopus and welcomes suitable paper submissions.

In addition, China Division members have online access to the RSA Blog, the online magazine (e-Zine) Regions, benefit from research funding opportunities and awards, open networks and collaborations, an expert register, reduced members' rates for RSA conferences and discounted publications.
